Current Comment

Here's one for the great American public tolaugh off: When the Boulder Dam bill went thr ugh the senate those worthy gentlemen provided for citizen labor in the construction work. When the house got done with it that provision was gone. The United States government hopes to alleviate the unemployment situation th spend g of $168,000 pro t, but if the b ed to stand as it is eau labor will derive out f the expenditu huge sum of public mone of Mexico is eagerly aw the Boulder Dam job, and contractors who do the wor will see to it that the cheapest man power is used. The action of the house in ommitting the "citizen labor" clause from the Boulder Dam bill has all the earmarks of an intentional slight of American labor. America for the Mexicans! Viva!

Of great importance: Public spirited citizens, in every section of California, should know that present state insurance laws impose a heavy burden of tax upon California's marine insurance business, while foreign underwriters are not so taxed. We Californians are vitally interested in this inequality because in the cost of almost every product we ship, manufacture, produce, buy or sell, there is an item of marine insurance. The cost of marine insurance plays an important part in the ability of a state to export its products. If such insurance can be bought more cheaply in this state, and the adoption of amendment No. 17 would be an important step in that direction, not only will our people be able to reach foreign markets to better advantage, but our shipowners, merchants, farmers and exporters will be strongly fortified in competing for the trade of the world.

It is of peculiar interest that California, the insurance center and insurance leader of western United States, has not enacted legislation which will place its marine insurance business on a parity with foreign underwriters, but it is a fact.

California marine insurance companies are taxed on gross premium income, while foreign interests are taxed on net profits. Obviously, this difference of taxation gives the foreign underwriters a distinct competitive advantage. Constitutional amendment No. 17 if passed by the voters of California, will correct this inequality and permit our American companies to compete on more equal terms with foreign underwriters.

The measure is presented to the people of the state by a unanimous vote of the senate and assembly of the California legislature. It embodies the principles of the "model marine insurance law" which has been enacted by congress and adopted by the states of New York, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Connecticut, Rhode Island, Washington and Oregon as an aid to the upbuilding of the American merchant marine.

The following civic bodies have endorsed amendment No. 17 and gone on public record favoring its adoption: California State Chamber of Commerce, County Assessors Association of California, Executive Committee California Farm Bureau, California Real Estate association, California Taxpayers' association, San Francisco Chamber of Commerce, Municipal League of Los Angeles, Board of Fire Underwriters of the Pacific, California Association of Insurance Agents, Fire Insurance Exchange of Los Angeles, San Francisco Civic League of Improvement Clubs and Associations, the Garage and Property Owners association of California, the Board of Governors of the Insurance Brokers' Exchange of San Francisco, Napa County Association of Insurance Agents, Sacramento Chamber of Commerce, Insurance Federation of California, Governmental and Finance Committee on Taxation of the Commonwealth club and the Board of Marine Underwriters of San Francisco.

If we are going to keep California to the fore in the shipping game it might be a good idea to see what we can do for amendment No. 17.

That's all

PASS HARBOR ACT, URGES C. C.; NO. 9 ON THE BALLOT

The Campbell Chamber of Co asks you to call to of all your friends ve need for im- lities at the state- or on San Francis-terests of California d in an eleventh to acquaint the pub- the urgency of passing harbor improvement act, No. 9 on the November ballot, which provides these needed facilities through a $10,000,000 bond issue.

There is no opposition to this measure, because the law requires that the bond interest and redemption must be paid for from harbor revenues and therefore it can never cost a cent in taxes. But there is danger that indifference may cause it to fail, which would mean the serious crippling of the proper development of California's foreign trade.

It may be truly said that it is only a formality that requires the entire state to approve a measure permitting the harbor at San Francisco to finance itself, but this harbor is controlled by the entire state, and the commerce it develops benefits all of California.

YOU CAN PHONE TO AUSTRALIA FROM U. S. NOW

Regular telephone calls twice as far as the farthest now made from America are now possible, with the opening Monday of commercial telephone service between Australia and Campbell.

A call between this city and Sydney will cover 17,000 miles, says Miss Mattie Curran, manager of the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph company at the local office. The longest American circuits previously were from California to Eastern Europe ,about 8,600 miles.

The new service, opened by the American Telephone and Telegraph company, has the longest circuit ever set up for regular commercial calls. It includes two radio links, one across the Atlantic and the other between England and Australia. Wire lines are used across this continent.

Nearly 500,000 telephones in the states of Queensland, New South Wales and Victoria, in addition to the city of Adelaide, are connected to the network no w within reach of the Bell System. Calls can be made from all points in the United States, Cuba, and the principal Mexican cities.

The cost of a call between the Pacific coast and any Australian point is $57 for the first three minutes and $19 for each additional minute.

CASE OF "TAIL WAGGING THE DOG" SEEN IN SUNDAY CLOSING

(Editorial)

The question of the Sunday closing of barber shops is one for the barbers themselves to decide .It does not require action by the voting population of the state to settle questions of policy for one business organization.

If the barbers of California want to close their shops on Sunday, why can they not do so without asking the state to help them close?

The reason is, of course, that they are not all in agreement on the question. Some of them would prefer to keep open shop on Sunday, and such would gain a financial advantage over those whose shops are closed.

Those who would like to keep their shops closed on Sunday "cannot" do so because other shops ,open on that day, would be taking in cash while the closed shops would be doing no business. The trouble is that the open shop would be more prosperous than one that was closed for that is by no means certain. Other and more important factors than Sunday closing enter into the problem of achieving business success. The open shop would, on that particular day, not have so much competition as on other days; that is all.

The Sunday closers see in this an unfair advantage, which apparently is not to be thought of, however small it might prove to be. Hence they will be forced to keep open likewise, unless the people vote for Sunday closing. They simply cannot keep their shops closed while others are open for business.

The great majority of the barbers, we are told, would prefer to shut down on Sunday and have a weekly day of rest; but a few would persist in keeping open, and therefore all would be obliged to keep open, unles sthe state helps them out. The tail, in this instance, seems able to wag the body; and the power of the state is invoked for action to enable the body to wag the tail.

If the state is to step in and settle questions of rivalry and competition in business affairs, and attempt to adjust the internal workings of business organizations so that all parties will have an equal opportunity to be successful, it will certainly find enough to do in this line to engage all its energies, without giving attention to the usual affairs of government. Civil government exists for a different and higher purpose than this.

Paternalism in government is not in harmony with American priciples and the American spirit of independence; and is not desired by the people of California.

The idea that one person cannot rest on Sunday unless all others are compelled to do likewise, has been much advocated by the sponsors of Sunday closing legislation. "The right of rest for one demands a law of rest for all," was their slogan. It would be no less true and no less silly to say that the right of work for one demands a law of work for all, compelling all to work in order that one who wanted to work might exercise his right to do so. The right to labor is no less sacred than the right to rest. And if the right or the privilege of one to rest on Sunday demands a law compelling all to rest, is it true of Sunday only? Why not on other times during the week? Why not have the time of beginning and closing work prescribed by law? Once started on the road of paternalism, where is the logical stopping place?

Barbers who are afraid of what financial loss they might suffer if they closed their shops on Sunday while others remained open, should consider the example and experience of observers of the seventh-day Sabbath, who regularly close all their business operations on Saturday, the most important day of the week, usually, from a business viewpoint. Of the hundred thousand besides Jews in this country who make this practice, not one has ever been reported as having come to poverty for that reason. If they can live and prosper in business as they do, without a law compelling others to close down on their day of rest, it is certain that the barbers of California do not need the proposed law for Sunday closing.

ROOSEVELT TREE PROGRAM MONDAY

The anual memorial program in honor of the late President Theodore Roosevelt was held Monday afternoon by the high school. The program opened with a prayer by the Rev. Albert S. Buell of the Methodist church, followed by the singingof "America," the audience remaining standing for the salute. The spade with which Roosevelt dug the hole in which to plant the redwood tree in 1903 was exhibited by the president of the high school student body, Daniel Redmond. The poem, "Our Sentinel," composed and copyrighted by Mrs. Mary Lanphear, was read by Redmond. The tree, planted on the corner of the high school grounds 27 years ago, now stands about 75 feet tall.

S. G. Tompkins, a San Jose attorney, was the principal speaker of the afternoon, and he spoke of the responsibilities of the school children as the coming citizens and workers of the country.

D. H. Cramer, principal of the high school, presided over the ceremonies, and E. W. Allen, president of the Tree association, was present. A 35-piece orchestra from the high school, under the direction of A. A. Thielke, played several numbers as a feature of the program.

SAVE WATER THIS WAY, DIRECTORS WATER DIST. SAY

One way to keep flood water from wasting to the bay is to use more of it for winter irrigation. Then there is a double saving. Creek water so used is saved from wastage and the orchard receives a wetting which makes less pumping necessary in the spring and summer. Furthermore, the creek water costs a great deal less than well water.

While the Page conservation ditch two miles south of Campbell is not considered an irrigation ditch, yet there are times during heavy flow of Los Gatos creek when a large surplus of water is available for use other than percolation. Then the directors of the water conservation district would like to see the surplus water used by orchardists who are near enough to the ditch to get the water easily. A fair charge for the water seems to be fifty cents an hour for two second feet, or 900 gallons per minute, and this charge was decided upon by the directors at their last meeting, Oct. 7. This is about half the charge made by private ditch companies operating on Los Gatos creek.

The water conservation district is having the banks of Page ditch raised in present low places so that the water may be more readily taken out. The district does not wish to go to the expense of installing diversion wiers and gates in the ditch. Thus farmers who wish to use the water should get together and make their own ditches, conferring with the directors on where best to get the water easily. It is now time to begin.

An acre foot of water applied in the winter season is ample irrigation. One second foot, or one cubic foot per second, amounts to 450 gallons per minute. This will cover an acre an inch deep in an hour. Thus 12 hours with that stream makes an acre foot. With two second feet as priced above, an acre foot will be received in six hours at a cost of three dollars.

STEPHEN MERRILL WINS AUDITION

Information has been received from reliable sources stating that Stephen Merrill of Campbell, No. 8, second man to sing in the Atwater-Kent audition last Monday evening over KPO emerged victorious over the other male contestants.

Steve sang a high—in fact, the highest—tenor solo. He will now compete with winers from eight other western states and, if fortune favors him, take a part in the national audition at New York City this winter. Local people listening to the audition had no trouble in recognizing Stephen's voice, and were confident that the decision would be in his favor. The village will be rooting for him when he next appears.

Those from Campbell who were included in the team were assistant steward, Jessie McChesney; lady assistant steward, Marie Barnes; drill team, Jessie McChesney, Marie Hendricks, Bessie Merrill, Annie Hedegard. Court ladies, Mrs. H. C. Hagen, Ida Skow, Mrs. L. Shelley, Annie Keesling, Zelma Jones.

THE SPORT FORUM
By DICK LYNDEN

The Trojan varsity, despite psychological impediments and the fact that Pop never loses to a team for which he points, managed to eke out a 41-12 victory in the annual football festivities last Saturday before a crowd of 90,000 neatly embezzled spectators. Well, anyway, Stanford still has the axe.

The Warner offense, composed principally of pirouettes and other bizzare displays apparently designed to bamboozle the rabble, was just a trifle shoddy when likened to the smoothly specialized Trojan assault, and not a little superfluous. Jones' boys worked a stupid and ancient cutback over guard for fat gains all afternoon, the interference accomplishing what Mr. Warner had in mind when he persistently required his players to pass mythical bricks around amongst themselves with an occasional actuality for variation.

Of course, Mr. Warner's ambitious "C" formation, purported to beguile the nimble-brained men of Troy, did not exactly fail functionally since the Trojans used the ball most of the game to advance their own selfish interests and thereby avoided possibility of annoying ventures on the side of the besieged. However, the agile Moffat and a certain Ernest Caddel were seen to make some very interesting open-field digressions on particular occasions when the celebrated Warner effects abetted their efforts to accomplish open territory.

Mr. Warner's convincing theory that "a good offense is the best defense" should be converted into a more precise protasis, which would amend with a "providing the defense is capable of obtaining possession" clause. This, obviously, would make the present apothegm vary with the obstinacy of the opposition, and would in this be commendable as considerably more a far-sighted maxim in a business where alibis are not a trifling concern.

The Stanford Dudes, according to more recent intelligences, were pointing for U. C. L. A. all the while, and so could not be expected to play the superior, stylish sort of game indicated in their potentially oily offense against a provincal team such as S. C.

The only Cardinal lineman who soiled his immaculate white jersey last Saturday was Phil Neill and he probably felt very bad about it. It seems that Philip encountered a rather ubiqitous young vulgarian (Pinkert by name) several times too often, and in this not only dirtied his pretty costume, but ate so much turf the field looked like a flock of sheep had been grazing here and yon. The rest of the boys readily agreed to assume decent retreat, and hence were treated less hardly. However, the Stanford assembly did show a fine assortment of headlocks and half-nelsons whenever pressed into action by pangs of conscience and fear of indictment on fraud charges.

The only consolation Stanford supporters have recourse to now is the fact that the debating team has four returned veterans. And the Cal game, certainly.

Messrs. Duffield and Mohler measured the field so many times that the yardage compilations looked like the writer's golf card after a good day.

Harry Hillman, although not noticeably effective on offense, contrived to get in some counters in the clinches, and through his individual efforts was able to persuade Mr. Duffield to retire early in the car-

Variety is the spice of life, better still, in variety is life and more of it. Willmonte Frazee, food expert, was a most interesting speaker at Kiwanis luncheon today. He is making a speaking campaign in this district addressing the many service clubs and other organizations with the view of educating the public on a more balanced food ration.

These talks give ideas of the better combinations of foods from the chemists' viewpoint, thereby preventing unhealthful conditions in the human body arther than the remedy for such conditions.

As man power is the major element of all organization, the postponment of man's inefficiency through ill health or death only adds to the man power and efficiency of the nation.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES
By
Helen Gartner

The Girls league last Thursday enjoyed a program. This was the first program meeting of the year. After several announcements, the meeting was turned over to Dorothy Todd, chairman of the program committee. The first numbers were two recitations by Gladys Nielson, "Capital Punishment" and "Money." The following number, "When the Organ Played at Twilight," was beautifully sung by Cora and Alice Blakesley. The girls were encored and favored with "Rock Me to Sleep in My Old 'Tucky Home." and both pieces were accompanied by Lois Lloyd. Before the meting was adjourned Miss Ruby Howes told us a few incidents of her trip to Europe.

Two of our hockey teams are going to compete with Los Gatos Wednesday after school. The games will be held at Los Gatos.

Mr. Thielke displayed his talented grammar school band at the Rainbow fountain. Several selections were played under Mr. Thielke's direction and were enjoyed by the spectators.

Campbell's 110's and 120's were victorious last Friday evening over Fremont's equal teams. The boys have now begun to co-operate and these were the best game sof the season.

Gas-fired heating is clean and care-free

If you are tired of making fires on chilly mornings, tired of cleaning out ashes and dirt from smudgy fires—then one of these labor saving appliances is just the thing for heating your home

"Cold weather may catch me by surprise, but with our new gas heating system my wife and children can keep warm and cozy without any effort or trouble."

The Floor Furnace

The Floor Furnace is ideal for homes having no basement.

Floor Furnace

This gas-fired appliance will heat two or three rooms comfortably, even in the coldest weather. You turn a handy valve to start it. Quickly, it circulates warm air all about the rooms. It draws cold air off the floor, down around the hot outsides of the steel firebox, and back into the room as warm air, without mingling with the burning gas. All products of combustion are vented outdoors.

Completely installed for $10.00 down and only $7.50 a month.

The Circulating Room Heater

The Circulating Room Heater is ideal for heating small homes, stores, and offices. No basement is necessary.

This circulating heater is a graceful cabinet, harmonizing with the most tasteful furnishings.

You'll like its clean, convenient heating. It circulates healthful warm air in from 2 to 4 rooms. No products of combustion can escape into the room—they are vented outdoors.

This economical heater will be installed by us for only $5.00 down and $7.00 per month.

Circulating Room Heater

The Radiantfire

You can modernize your fireplace and change it into cheerful, care-free heating by installing a Humphrey Radiantfire.

The Radiantfire does away with the discomforts of the old-fashioned fireplace, with its wasteful heating, dirt and ashes and all attending labor. At the same time it gives you all the romance of an open fireplace.

Have a Radiantfire installed in your fireplace. Light it—quickly it takes away the chill and spreads radiant warmth to every corner of the room. There is a Radiantfire suitable for every fireplace, in colors and designs to conform with any decorative scheme. We'll install one in your fireplace for $5.00 down.

Radiantfire

In addition to these three inexpensive but efficient heaters, there are warm-air furnaces suitable for homes having a basement.

And remember, when you have gas there is no fuel to order. No cleaning to do. You pay for the gas after using.

See these house-heating appliances at your dealer's store or call at our office.

Post Office Door Is Subject Of Poem By Robert K. Buell

The following pat poem was handed in at the post office window last week and expresses a most hearty welcome that is echoed, according to Postmaster Smith, by the working force inside.

The Attitude of the Post Office Door

I think I might say, in no braggart's way,
I'm the most popular person in town;
They all look on me, some laugh, so I see.
Still there are others who look sad and frown.

They come to see me all times of the day;
Some come to bring things, others take things away,
Strangers come to see me once, old friends come each day,
"Keep right on coming, you're welcome," I say.

They come great and small, I'm open to all,
I serve equally both rich men and poor.
Here I can see life, its pleasures, its strife,
Here's disapointment, there's gladness, I'm sure.

Perhaps you've guessed why I need no rest,
I'm here at your service to give you my best.
So, if you crave service, you'll get that and more.
I'm Uncle Sam's servant, the Post Office Door.
